

Dr. Mary Ann Devine is an Associate Professor at Kent State University in the School of Exercise, Leisure, & Sport Studies. She has more than 12 years experience as a researcher with her line of research focusing on the sociological implications of including individuals with disabilities in leisure contexts. Dr. Devine has conducted research and published more than 15 referred articles examining multiple variables related to inclusion, three of which directly relate to individuals with Autism Spectrum Disorders. In addition to Dr. Devine's research expertise, she has been the PI or Co-PI on 5 national and regional grants examining variables related to inclusive recreation, the social construction of disability, and/or healthy active living for individuals with disabilities. Dr. Devine has conducted research presentations at more than 32 professional conferences and symposia over the past 15 years.