

UNIVERSITY OF ARKANSAS
COLLEGE OF EDUCATION
& HEALTH PROFESSIONS

REGISTER NOW!

12TH Annual ESL Symposium

Friday, February 21, 2020

8:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.

Hilton Garden Inn – Fayetteville, AR

Keynote Speaker

Dr. Luciana C. de Oliveira
Professor, Department of Teaching and Learning
University of Miami
Past President (2019-2020), TESOL International Association

Keynote Presentation: A Language Based Approach for Content Instruction for ELs

Luciana C. de Oliveira is Professor in the Language and Literacy Learning in Multilingual Settings program area in the Department of Teaching and Learning at the University of Miami in Miami, Florida. Her research focuses on issues related to teaching English language learners (ELLs) at the K-12 level, including the role of language in learning the content areas; teacher education, advocacy and social justice; and nonnative English-speaking teachers in TESOL. She earned her Ph.D. in Education with a specialization in Language, Literacy and Culture and an additional specialization in Second Language Acquisition from the University of California, Davis, in 2006. She earned her M.A. in English with an emphasis in TESOL at California State University, East Bay, and B.A. in English and Brazilian Portuguese and teaching credential in secondary English from São Paulo State University in Brazil. Prior to coming to UM, Dr. de Oliveira was an Associate Professor and Coordinator of the MA TESOL in K-12 program at Teachers College, Columbia University. Luciana is the series editor of five volumes focused on the Common Core and ELLs (2014-2016) with TESOL Press. She has authored, co-authored, edited, or co-edited 10 books and has several others under contract or in review and has published a number of refereed journal articles and book chapters.

Info link: <https://cied.uark.edu/pro-development-childrens/esl-symposium.php>
On-line Registration: <https://commerce.cashnet.com/UARKESSL>

For info, contact:
Diana Gonzales Worthen, PhD, dworthen@uark.edu
Janet Penner-Williams, EdD, jpenner@uark.edu